RIPPLES

Like a stone tossed into a quiet pond, water rings will continue to ripple out, becoming bigger and bigger--much larger than the size of the original stone that hit the water. Your words and actions are the same--they don't just end there, with you. They go much further, beyond what you can imagine to people and places you may never know about.

When you say or do something of value, it sets forth a motion of positive vibes. That good energy gets transformed and spreads. From there, it continues to go out, getting bigger and bigger.

Some value that you put out into the world, maybe yesterday or maybe last year, right this moment might somewhere far away, be making someone's life happier. It's like the butterfly effect. Be mindful of what motion you set forth because you can never predict or control the distance and broadness travelled of what you say or do.

Put forth warm-heartedness, compassion, kindness and love in your actions. The more positive the vibes start out, the more positively they are likely to grow and radiate out to the world. Put the very best of who you are into everything you say and do, and your unique one-in-this-world value will spread and reach unknown places.

Do not underestimate the influence that you have on life. Live each precious second with virtue and love, and do and say things that come from a beautiful place within your soul. By doing so, you will make the world a better place. Your existence will make a positive difference.

Think about: Once started, the butterfly effect cannot be controlled or stopped.
